

Announcing the newest addition to AKC Canine and Me – Agility!

The AKC's Public Education Department has just announced Agility as their December addition to the AKC Canine and Me program. The program acts as an exciting way for young adults (13 years of age or older) to bond with their dog through fun activities, and maybe even win some sweet prizes along the way!

AKC Canine and Me invites teens to try out the agility "jump" skill with their dog. To participate, teens will need to record themselves and their dog completing this month's skill and submit their videos through Cinebody. One lucky participant will be chosen to win a $50 Amazon gift card at the end of the month!

AKC Canine and Me acts as an excellent way for teenagers and young adults who are dog owners to stay busy and active while strengthening their canine bond. This program promotes health, responsibility, and fun while introducing the wonderful world of AKC Sports & Events.

We hope that you will share the joy of AKC Canine and Me with your family and friends.
